As a second hypothetical example, if the user's offer request is accepted and it is agreed to start accounting on 1 June 2023, then accounting will be done until 31 May 2024). All types of transshipment (full cycle or inter-terminal) shall be accounted. Accounting is per container; for example, during this annual period the user could move a weekly average of 1,700 full cycle containers and 100 inter-terminal movements). The average weekly count is calculated by taking into account the total number of transshipment containers moved during this annual period and is divided by the number of weeks in that period (which is 52 weeks). For this purpose, users should submit to the APMTTC commercial area the projections of transshipment containers that they will be mobilize during the annual period indicated above, in order to determine the availability of terminal space.
 - APMTTC will carry out a review every three (03) months of the weekly average of the transshipment containers mobilized by the user requesting the offer; if it is verified, during the review, that the user has not met the required weekly average, then APMTTC may cancel the offer.
 - APMTTC will carry out a review every three (03) months of the weekly average of the transshipment containers mobilized by the user who requested the offer; if it is verified, during the review, that the user is meeting the required weekly average, then APMTTC will apply for that quarterly period and with respect to the item i) discount, the additional discount of USD 35 (on the initial promotional tariffs for standard service of containers of item i) over a maximum of 17,715 transshipment containers. This quarterly discount, which will apply to a maximum of 17,715 containers, will be granted in the form of a credit note or another modality agreed upon by the shipping line and APMTTC.
 - In case of containers that exceed the 14 days free of use of the operating area and the free pool of 300 TEU, the user will have to assume the payment of the tariff applicable from the 15th day onwards (subsections 1.2.6.4 and 1.2.7.4 of the Tariff List). However, if the user mobilizes more than 1,800 containers per week on average, APMTTC may extend, subject to space availability, the days of use of the operational area for those containers that remain more than 14 days and cannot access the free pool. The extension days would be up to seven days at most. If APMTTC grants this benefit to a user, it will be applied to other users under similar conditions.
- This offer will be subject to space availability confirmed by APMTTC

 - iv) Granting of a free pool of 300 TEU's (use of operational area of 300 TEU's of transshipment without time limit). This free pool is granted to those containers that have exceeded the 14 days of use of the operational area.

As a second hypothetical example, if the user's offer request is accepted and it is agreed to start accounting on February 01, 2024, then accounting will be done until April 30, 2026). All types of transshipment (full cycle or inter-terminal) shall be accounted. Accounting is per container; for example, during the accounting period the user could move a weekly average of 1,200 full cycle containers and 100 inter-terminal containers, which add up to a weekly average of 1,300 containers (which results in a weekly average of 2,500 movements; 2,400 full cycle movements and 100 inter-terminal movements). The average weekly count is calculated by taking into account the total number of transshipment containers moved during the count period and divided by the number of weeks in that period (which is 117 weeks). For this purpose, users should submit to the APMTC commercial area the projections of transshipment containers that they will be mobilize during the period indicated above, in order to determine the availability of terminal space.

APMTC will carry out a review every three (03) months of the weekly average of the transshipment containers mobilized by the user requesting the offer; if it is verified, during the review, that the user has been complying with, at least 90% of the required weekly average, then APMTC will apply for that quarterly period and with respect to the item i) discount, the additional discount of USD 35 (on the initial promotional tariffs for standard service of containers of item i) over a maximum of 9,143 transshipment containers. This quarterly discount, which will apply to a maximum of 9,143 containers, will be granted in the form of a credit note or another modality agreed upon by the shipping line and APMTC.

The additional discount of USD 25 per container set out in item vi) will be granted as long as the user has complied, during the first quarter, with the committed weekly average (that is, with 1,300 weekly average containers). This discount will only be granted for the first quarter of the offer.

In case of containers that exceed the 14 days free of use of the operating area and the free pool of 300 TEU, the user will have to assume the payment of the tariff applicable from the 15th day onwards (subsections 1.2.6.4 and 1.2.7.4 of the Tariff List).
